THE FATE OF GREENBACKISM.

The Greenback movement is but the thing of a day. It is too much of a fraud to exist for any length of time. The people are too intelligent to give it general support. It is as hurtful to the moral, social, and business interests of this country, as slavery. It is worse so far as it affects the prosperity of the nation. Slavery was a wickedness—a disgrace to America. Greenbackism—which means repudiation and inflation—would not only disgrace the nation by breaking faith with our creditors, but the blow would strike every laboring man, every farmer, every manufacturer, and every merchant. It would make the poor man poorer, by lessening the purchasing power of the dollar he might earn by hard work. It would crush every legitimate enterprise, close every avenue to prosperity and paralyze every industry in the land. This would be the work of the Greenback doctrine if adopted. It could not be otherwise if experience is a faithful teacher.

The movement is too abominably absurd to succeed. The voters of the United States are enlightened to permit such a disastrous policy to become the policy of the Government. It has been said that if you take the humbug out of the world, you won't have much left to do business with; and rob the Greenback movement of its falsehoods, and it will fall to the ground never to rise again. To make such an iniquitous scheme as inflation or repudiation work, would be as impossible as it would be to fire a joke from a cannon, and the people are beginning to see it; and hundreds who under the impulse of the moment espoused the cause, are abandoning it when they consider the disastrous consequences which would inevitably follow such schemes.

There were thousands of Democrats who became ashamed of James Buchanan, and to-day they deny they voted for him. His presidency was a national disgrace and in all parts of the country Democrats could be found who denied their leader notwithstanding they supported him in 1856. Before five years pass away, there will be thousands of Greenbackers who will positively deny they had anything to do with the present inflation movement. It will prove to be the thinnest political organization which ever attempted to exist, and they will be ashamed of their connection with it.

THE DEMOCRATIC SENATORSHIP.

A new programme has been marked out by the Democratic State Central Committee in regard to the United States Senatorship. A few weeks ago the sentiment was growing in the Democratic ranks that Matt Carpenter would be the candidate—that is, he would be called out irrespective of party, and that his friends, Democrats, Greenbackers, as well as Republicans, would support him for the Senatorship. But some of the leaders in the Democratic party were hardly satisfied with this movement. They have a map in their hands, who is starving for office—a lawyer by profession, what is it in politics, a resident of Illinois, "earnest" in all things, and Doolittle by name. His greed for office is only equalled by his ability to seem so earnest, and his capacity to write letters and answers. He has been out of office nine years, and his life without an office is a burden which is hard to endure. Just now he is trying to make himself conspicuous by writing financial letters, and by trying to make Mr. Parker stand on three platforms; and is otherwise putting himself in training for next winter.

Mr. Joe Rankin, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, was in Janesville one day last week, and in talk-then surely the sins of this woman must have been forgiven her. Her faith made her whole, made her one with the loving Christ whose example she followed in giving her life that others might live. Amid so much that is sorrowful to an agonizing degree, to such a heart-breaking degree, a common humanity, the example of this brave woman stands by itself, singular but beautiful, sad but touching, the very expression of that hope the realization of which we have in the words, "inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, my servants, ye have done it unto me." Out of the darkness, the gloom, the tenderness and truthfulness of her womanhood, emerged, transfigured and purified to become the healer, and at last to come to the healer of souls, with Him to rest forever. She is at peace.—Memphis Appeal.

An Old Relic.

One of John Brown's famous carbines has been fished out of the Potomac as Harper's Ferry. After the rifle works at the arsenal, had been recaptured on October 10, 1859, five of the insurgents were driven to the bank of the river. They plunged in and waded out to a rock where they fought 200 Virginians who lined the banks. Kagi and another of Brown's force were followed by the assailants. He dropped his rifle, and as a Virginian stepped out to capture him, he held up his arms and cried "don't shoot." His pursuer fired a revolver in his face and blew his brains out. In the bed of the river where Leeman dropped his rifle after leaving the rock, a carbine was found one day last week by a man who stepped onto it while wading. It is of the same make as the guns which John Brown collected in Chambersburg, and with which he armed his little band of followers. The barrel is covered with rust and the wood is eaten away in places by the action of pebbles and water, but the lock spring is as strong as ever. Meanwhile, the soul is marching on.

The Father of Greenbacks.

A hundred and sixty years ago the successor of Charles XII., of Sweden, chopped off the head of the State's Finance Minister. That Minister was Baron Goerz, of Holstein, the father of "flat" money. Goerz had ten millions of dollars in greenbacks issued, on which was printed "Royal Swedish Currency," and it was enacted that whoever refused to take this stuff for gold should suffer death. There was an apparent case of treason, and the King was delighted. But very soon came the reaction. Industries were demoralized and neglected; the better class of people were restless under the sharp hunt for gold and silver; the people of Norway boldly refused to give up their treasure, and Charles was forced to give up the idea, while endeavoring to enforce his rule. The greenback currency barely survived its author.

—A team belonging to Mr. Cook, of Harmony, started on the run from the depot, to-day, and dashed along Academy street until they reached Milwaukee street, where they dashed through the fence next to the Davis house and brought up with a great tumble in the front yard. POLITICAL TALK AT AVON.
There was a good-sized and enthusiastic meeting at Avon last Saturday night at which Hon. H. A. Patterson and E. M. Hyzer, of this city, put in some strong blows for the Republican ticket. Mr. William Blanchard presided and the speakers were cordially received, and eagerly listened to. There was no out-breaking of Greenbackism, and the tide seemed to be sweeping along all one way.

A KITCHEN SCENE.
There was a lively little scene at the Davis house yesterday afternoon. A man named Charles Burbank, who has been in the employ of Mr. G. H. Davis, as a porter and runner, but who was lately discharged for abusive language given while under the influence of drink, came into the kitchen and kicked up a row, and used unbecomingly language in the presence of several ladies of the house. Davis came in and ordered him out but he refused to go, and drew a revolver, and promised to spill blood. An officer was sent for to arrest Burbank but before he appeared on the scene, Burbank went out, hid the revolver under the barn, and skipped. Marshal Keating afterwards found him near the railroad and locked him up. This morning he appeared before Justice Prichard on two charges, the first of which, assault with intent to do great bodily injury, was discontinued. The other case was under the statute forbidding the careless use of firearms. This was continued until to-morrow morning, Burbank giving bail to the amount of $100.

DOING BETTER AND BETTER.

Glass, the photographer on Main street, don't propose to keep in the rut, but is constantly adding something new to enable him to meet the demands of his patrons. He has lately received from the East some new backgrounds, painted expressly for his gallery, and which will serve to give new effects to his pictures. They add greatly to the photographs which he is now taking. He has secured many other new accessories to his operating room, making it one of the finest in the West. The best of it all is that Glass knows how to handle these things, and he is bound to produce the very best pictures possible, and put the prices as low as any such grade of pictures can be had for anywhere.

Mrs. F. H. Fellows has been connected with Green's gallery, has been engaged to retouch the negatives. It is conceded that she has no superior in this State, and this makes a double assurance that no photographs will be sent out which will not compare favorably with any from the best galleries in the land. The work done by Glass in the past has already given him a strong hold on the people, and with these new facilities, better work will now be done than ever before. He has every facility found in the best galleries of the land, and knowing well how to use them to the best advantage, it is no wonder that his patronage is steadily increasing.

PORTER AROUSED.

There was an enthusiastic meeting last evening in Wilder's school house in the town of Porter. The crowd gathered to the number of about three hundred, some coming several miles. There was also a goodly sprinkling of ladies, who seemed no less interested than the sterner sex. A life and drum duet served as a prelude to the more formal part of the programme, and the speakers were received with much enthusiasm. Hon. Thomas Earle presided and introduced Hon. James Sutherland, of this city, who made a forcible and telling series of strong arguments, backed up by facts. Mr. Henry Blanchard, of this city, followed with a strong attack upon Greenback fallacies. Both speakers were cheered lustily. Many questions were put to them by some of the not-money men who were present, but they were always ready with answers, which struck home and served to clinch the truth still firmer. Hon. David S.

Sayre was called and addressed the meeting for about twenty minutes making a very telling speech in favor of honest money. The meeting was a grand success and the town was pretty well stirred up, and good reports may be looked for from Porter.

CASES CASES.

Constable Case yesterday spied a load of potatoes rolling along the street and proceeded to attach them to satisfy a judgment. The potatoes had been sold and were on their way to be delivered. Case proposed to go with the potatoes and if the purchaser wanted to pay him, all right, but if not, proposed to keep possession of them. The owner objected to having the potatoes thus gobbled up by an attachment, but could not help himself very well. The wagon in which the potatoes were loaded belonged however to another man named McArthur, and living at Johnstown. There was no attachment of course on the wagon, and McArthur proposed to what he pleased with his own. It pleased him to drive his wagon away, and of course the potatoes went with it. A small sized war broke out between the parties, near the corner of Milwaukee and Main streets, but McArthur finally consented to let his wagon stand still long enough to have the potatoes unloaded. When about half of the tubers had been dumped out, he changed his mind and drove off his wagon, and of necessity the rest of the load went with it. Case now seeks satisfaction by commencing a civil suit against McArthur for the potatoes and criminal proceeding for interfering with an officer.

JOHNSTOWN.

—Plowing is progressing finely in this locality, the recent rains having rendered the ground in good condition for cultivation. Should the weather continue favorable during the present month, a large amount of ground will be made ready for spring crops.
—Mr. William Riley recently threshed the barley grown from two acres of land which yielded 140 bushels, or 70 bushels per acre. It was a new variety called the German barley, and was very plump and heavy. If any one can beat that and retain a clear conscience, let us hear from them.
—Farmers that have not already selected their seed corn should do so at once, and place it in some dry and secure place. Mr. Nelson, who recently returned from Iowa and Kansas where he has been visiting friends, Mr. Cole speaks favorably of the localities visited, but his many friends will be glad to learn that he has no intention of leaving this place.
—Owing to a lack of fresh feed for cows the supply of milk at the cheese factory has considerably diminished, but the quality of cheese made is No. 1.
—Mr. Asahel Thayer and William Goodman with their families start this week for Iowa, where they intend to locate. May success attend them.
—The threshers of this town have been taking a rest for the last few weeks on account of the wet weather.
—Fred Teetehorn, a young man well known in this community, died in Kentucky, last week. Mr. Teetehorn had been for the past few months assisting in caring for the yellow fever sufferers at New Orleans, and feeling symptoms of that dreaded disease, started for home, but was unable to proceed farther than Kentucky, when he was taken from the cars, and soon after died.
—Mr. E. L. Cary has gone to Chicago to resume his studies at the Chicago Medical College.
—There is likely to be quite a demand for corn-bushers, this fall. If Footville will send over their boss busher, he will find no difficulty in securing a few days' work.
